INFORMATION WE COLLECT ONLINE – AND HOW WE COLLECT IT

You may visit our websites to find out about products and services and check rates, without giving us any personal information. We, and our service providers, may use software tools and/or “cookies” to track and gather information about your browsing activities in order to analyze usage, target areas for improvement, and create marketing programs to benefit our members or potential members that visit our site. Tracking may include the date and time of visits, pages viewed, time spent on our site, browser types, device data, the use of local storage technologies, location information, IP address, and the site visited just before and just after our site. As part of our security procedures for members using our online banking services to conduct account inquiries and transactions, we require personally identifiable information such as a login identification (username) and password. We may also collect certain information from identity verification services and consumer reporting agencies, including credit bureaus, to provide certain online banking services. We may use a cookie to authenticate your request.

1) Use of Cookies and Similar Tracking Technologies

The use of cookies and similar tracking technologies (including pixels or clear GIFs, tags, and web beacons) is a common internet practice. Cookies are small text files containing small amounts of information which are downloaded to your computer, smartphone, tablet, or other mobile device when you visit a website. Cookies are useful in a number of ways, including allowing a site or mobile app you use to recognize your device, save your settings on a site or mobile app, facilitate navigation, display information more effectively, and to personalize the user’s experience. Cookies are also used to gather statistical information about how sites and mobile apps are used in order to continually improve design and functionality and assist with resolving questions regarding the sites and mobile app.

a. Attributes of Cookies

Cookies set by us are called first-party cookies. We may also have third-party cookies, which are cookies from a domain different than the domain of the website you are visiting, for our advertising and marketing efforts. There can be first-party and/or third-party cookies within any of the below Categories of Cookies.

Cookies have a duration period. Cookies that expire at the end of a browser session are called “session” cookies. Cookies that are stored longer are called “persistent” cookies. There can be session and/or persistent cookies within any of the below Categories of Cookies. Persistent cookies are stored on your system and can be accessed again for multiple visits. Persistent cookies usually have an expiration date and will be automatically deleted from your system at that time.

b. Categories of Cookies

Below is a list of the types of cookies that may be used on our websites. We classify cookies into the following categories:

Strictly Necessary Cookies: These cookies are necessary for the website to function and cannot be switched off in our systems. They are usually only set in response to actions made by you which amount to a request for services, such as setting your privacy preferences, logging in or filling in forms. You can set your browser to block or alert you about these cookies, but some parts of the site will not then work. These cookies do not store any personally identifiable information.

Performance Cookies: These cookies allow us to count visits and traffic sources so we can measure and improve the performance of our site. They help us to know which pages are the most and least popular and see how visitors move around the site. All information these cookies collect is aggregated and therefore anonymous. If you do not allow these cookies we will not know when you have visited our site, and will not be able to monitor its performance.

Functional Cookies: These cookies enable the website to provide enhanced functionality and personalization. They may be set by us or by third party providers whose services we have added to our pages. If you do not allow these cookies then some or all of these services may not function properly.

Targeting Cookies: These cookies may be set through our site by our advertising partners. They may be used by those companies to build a profile of your interests and show you relevant adverts on other sites. They do not store directly personal information, but are based on uniquely identifying your browser and internet device. If you do not allow these cookies, you will experience less targeted advertising.

c. How to Control and Delete Cookies

1. Using Your Browser

Many of the cookies used on our websites can be enabled or disabled through our consent tool or by disabling the cookies through your browser. To disable cookies through your browser, follow the instructions usually located within the “Help,” “Tools” or “Edit” menus in your browser. Please note that disabling a cookie or category of cookies does not delete the cookie from your browser unless manually completed through your browser function.

A growing number of browsers have adopted Global Privacy Control (“GPC”). The GPC is a technical specification designed to allow internet users to notify businesses of their privacy preferences, such as whether they want their personal information to be sold or shared for behavioral advertising purposes. Where required to do so under applicable law, our websites will honor GPC opt-out signals.

2. Using Your Mobile Device

Some mobile devices come with a non-permanent advertising identifier or ID which gives companies the ability to serve targeted ads to a specific mobile device. In many cases, you can turn off mobile device ad tracking or you can reset the advertising identifier at any time within your mobile device privacy settings. You may also choose to turn off location tracking on your mobile device. By turning off ad tracking or location tracking on your mobile device, you may still see the same number of ads as before, but they may be less relevant because they will not be based on your interests.

3. Online Advertising & Cross Context Behavioral Advertising

You may see advertisements when you use many of our online services. These advertisements may be for our own products or services (including pre-screened offers of credit) or for products and services offered by third parties.

Which advertisements you see is often determined using the information we or our affiliates, service providers and other companies that we work with have about you, including information about your relationships with us (e.g., types of accounts held, transactional information, location of banking activity). To that end, where permitted by applicable law, we may share with others the information we collect from and about you.

Cross-context behavioral advertising refers to the targeting of advertising to a consumer based on the consumer's personal information obtained from the consumer's activity across businesses, distinctly branded websites, applications, or services, other than the business, distinctly branded website, application, or service with which the consumer intentionally interacts. We do not engage in cross-context behavioral advertising.

4. Cookie Settings

You may manage the cookies that run on our website by clicking on Cookie Settings on the cookies banner on our website. Except for strictly necessary cookies, you have the option of turning off targeting and performance cookies.

5. Third-Party Website Cookies That We Cannot Control

When using our websites, you may be directed to other websites for activities such as surveys, completing job applications, and to view content hosted on those sites such as an embedded video or news article. These websites may use their own cookies. We do not have control over the placement of cookies by other websites you visit, even if you are directed to them from our websites.

2) Location Data

When allowed by you, our app collects your location data to provide you with location-based services, such as identifying branches and ATMs near you, and location-based messages and offers. We also collect location data to help with fraud detection.

Opting out of location tracking. If you do not want us to collect location services, you may decline the collection of your location when prompted or adjust the location services settings on your device. Please note, however, that if you withdraw your consent to our collection of location information, you may no longer be able to use some features of the app.

3) IP Addresses

If you log on to our websites to access our online services, including but not limited to the online banking page, you may pass through a "firewall" used for security purposes and the Internet Protocol (IP) address associated with the device you are using may be identified. In certain instances, it may also obtain other information about your device to better identify you as an online user. This information may be retained in case it is needed for security or protection of member information.

4) Social Media

We may collect information, such as your likes, interests, feedback, and preferences when you interact with our official pages on social media websites such as Facebook, X, LinkedIn, YouTube, and Instagram or from our social media partners (but only if you choose to share with them and they, in turn, share that information with us). Please refer to the policies of those companies to better understand your rights and obligations with regard to your activity on those websites.
